AMERICA'S NOBLEMAN.
The noblest men I know on earth,
Are men whose hands are brown with toil;
Who, backed by no ancestral graves, Hew down the woods and till the soil;
And win thereby a prouder fame Than follows king or warrior's name.
The workmen, whatever their task, To carve the stone or bear the load—They wear upon their honest brows
The royal stamp and seal of God;
And brighter are their drops of sweat Than diamonds in a coronet.
God bless the noble workmen, Who rear the cities of the plain,
Who dig the mines and build the ships, And drive the commerce of the main;
God bless them, for their swarthy hands Have wrought the glory of all lands.

THE AMERICAN FLAG.
At this juncture in our national troubles, when the flag of the Union is being treated with contumely, and thrown aside to give place to those that were used in the days of our colonial vassalage, the following extract from the speech of Mr. Pinckney, delivered at Charleston, South Carolina, during the nullification excitement, will be perused with pleasure by all friends of the Union:
"Wherever I have been, I have been proud of being a citizen of this Republic, and to the remotest corner of the earth have walked erect and secure under the banner which our opponents would tear down and trample under foot. I was in Mexico when the town was taken by assault. The house of the American Ambassador was then, as it ought to be, the refuge of the distressed and persecuted; it was pointed out to the infuriated soldiery as a place filled with their enemies. They rushed to the attack.
My only defence was the flag of my country, and it was flung out at the instant that hundreds of muskets were levelled at us. Mr.
Mason (a brave man never stood by his friend in the hour of danger) and myself placed ourselves beneath its waving folds, and the attack was suspended. We did not blench, for we felt strong in the protecting arm of this mighty Republic. We told them that the flag that waved over us was the banner of that nation to whose example they owed their liberties, and to whose protection they were indebted for their safety. The scene changed as by enchantment; those men who were on the point of attacking and massacring the inhabitants, cheered the flag of our country, and placed sentinals to protect it from outrage."

"Fellow citizens, in such a moment as that, would it have been any protection to me and mine to have proclaimed myself a Carolinian?
Should I have been here to tell you this tale, if I had hung out the PALMETTO and SINGLE STAR? Be assured that, to be respected abroad, we must maintain our place in the Union."

OH, YOUR WIFE.—Three jovial fellows—Tom Watson, Joe Brown, and Bill Walker—sat late at the village tavern, and in the merriments of their hearts made an arrangement that the "shot" should be paid by him who omitted to do the first thing his wife told him on returning home. They then separated for the night, engaging to meet again next morning, and make an honest report. Next morning, Walker and Brown were early at their posts, but it was some time before Watson made his appearance. Walker began first—"You see, when I entered my house the candle was out, and as the fire gave but a glimmering of light, I was near walking into a pot of batter that the crumpets were to be made of this morning.
My wife, dreadfully out of humor at sitting up so long, said to me, sarcastically, 'Do put your foot in the batter!' 'Just as you say, Maggy,' said I, and without the least hesitation I set my foot in the batter, and then went to bed." Next Joe Brown told his story—"My wife had already retired to rest in our sleeping room, which adjoins the kitchen, and the door of which was ajar. Not being able to navigate perfectly well, I made a dreadful clattering among the household furniture, and in no very pleasant tone she bawled out—'Do break the porridge pot, Joe!' No sooner said than done. I seized hold of the pot, and, striking it against the chimney jamb, broke it in a hundred pieces. After this exploit I retired to rest, and got a certain lecture for my pains." It was now Tom Watson's turn to give an account of himself, which he did with a very long face as follows—"My wife gave me the most unlucky command in the world; for, as I was blundering up stairs in the dark, she cried out 'Do break your neck, do, Tom!' 'I'll be cured if I do, Kate,' said I, as I gathered myself up; 'I'll sooner pay the bill.' And so, landlord, here's the cash for you. This is the last time that ever I'll risk a sovereign on the command of my wife."

ANOTHER ALLEGED DISCOVERY OF MEN WITH TAILS.—For the thousandth time since the days of Ptolemy, the story of the existence of a race of men with tails, has again been set afoot. A Dutch journal, the Verspreiden Christelijke Stemmen for September, contains a lengthy account of the native population of Borneo. The writer asserts that the Poonangs, a race inhabiting large tracts of the interior of the island, are all adorned with tails. A Mr.
Von Hontrop, while in the Borneo province recently, saw and examined three of these Poonangs. He came to the conclusion that their caudal appendages, which are described as from two to five inches in length, hard, stiff, and nearly immovable, are neither a natural deformity, nor the result of disease, but a genuine and general characteristic of the race.
Some are to be caught and sent to Holland.

LADD, WEBSTER, & CO.'S IMPROVED TIGHT-STITCH SEWING MACHINES.
A few of the many reasons why these Sewing Machines are preferred above all others.

1. They are remarkably simple in their construction. A child can operate them, and understand the mechanism.
2. They are the strongest Sewing Machine made. It is almost impossible to break or get them out of order.
3. They are sure in their operation; finishing the work in a uniformly perfect manner.
4. They make a tight lock-stitch, alike on both sides of the work, which cannot be unravelled.
5. They stitch, hem, bind, fell, run, and gather, without basting.
6. They sew equally well the lightest and the heaviest fabrics.
7. They sew over the heaviest seams without changing the tension or breaking the finest thread.
8. They use any No. of Cotton, Thread, or Silk, directly from the spool.
9. They use a straight needle; curved ones are liable to break.
10. The needle has a perpendicular motion.
This is absolutely necessary for heavy work.
11. They have a wheel feed; none others are in constant contact with the work.
12. They run easily and almost noiseless.
13. They are not liable to oil the dress of the operator.
14. They do not require a screw-driver to set the needle.
15. They do not have to be taken apart to oil or clean.
16. They do not form ridges on the under side of the work, nor ravel out, nor are they wasteful of thread, as is the case with all chain-stitch machines.
17. They are capable of doing a greater range of work, and in a more perfect manner, than any other Sewing Machine, as is proved by the result of our challenge for a trial, which has never been accepted.
